Emily Wyant writes

Tanya and Abby were recently recognized by a new Operating Room team member as star preceptors. It is not a mystery that people learn in different ways. However, in the Operating Room, it is imperative that preceptors take a couple steps back, and allow the orientee to critically think on their own instead of simply performing the steps for them while giving instruction.

Tanya and Abby both allowed the new team member to tap into her clinical thinking skills to anticipate next steps during the procedures. She was very thankful to have Abby and Tanya as preceptors, as she has learned valuable knowledge that she needs to be a successful OR nurse.

On Team Member Appreciation Day, I want to take a moment to recognize your dedication and hard work throughout the past year! It's hard to believe everything that we've been through together. During this time, we have embraced our spirit of determination in order to care for our community in unprecedented ways. Today Abby, Tanya, Toni, Mary, Laurie, Holly, and Dr Strasburg were all instrumental in swiftly getting an emergent vascular case going. From the time we knew about the case until we had the patient asleep in the OR after transport from the ED, their teamwork and communication were highly effective. The patient was in significant emotional distress and as a team their compassionate efforts resulted in a prompt resolution of the patient's emergent need. It's an honor to have them on our team, and their expertise and patient focus are a priceless asset for our patients!
